MOTION FOR A RESOLUTION

to wind up the debate on the statement by the Council and the Commission pursuant to Rule 110(2) of the Rules of Procedure on the European integration process of Serbia

Jelko Kacin

on behalf of the Committee on Foreign Affairs

European Parliament resolution on the European integration process of Serbia

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Stabilisation and Association Agreement between the European Communities and their Member States and the Republic of Serbia, on which the European Parliament gave its consent on 19 January 2011 and which is in the final stage of process of ratification by Member States, and the Interim Agreement on trade and trade-related matters between the European Community and the Republic of Serbia, which entered into force on 1 February 2010,
- having regard to Council Decision 2008/213/EC of 18 February 2008 on the principles, priorities and conditions contained in the European Partnership with Serbia and repealing Decision 2006/56/EC<sup>1</sup>,
- having regard to the General Affairs Council conclusions of 28 February 2012,
- having regard to the Council Conclusions of 25 October 2010 inviting the Commission to prepare its opinion on Serbia's application for membership of the European Union, to the Council Conclusions of 5 December 2011 and the Conclusions from the European Council of 9 December 2011,
- having regard to the Commission Opinion of 12 October 2011 on Serbia's application for membership of the European Union (SEC(2011)1208) and the Commission communication of 12 October 2011 entitled 'Enlargement Strategy and Main Challenges 2011-2012 (COM(2011)666),
- having regard to UN Security Council Resolution 1244 (1999), to the ICJ Advisory Opinion of 22 July 2010 on the question of the accordance with international law of the unilateral declaration of independence in respect of Kosovo, and to the UN General Assembly Resolution of 9 September 2010, which acknowledged the content of the opinion and welcomed the readiness of the EU to facilitate the dialogue between Belgrade and Pristina<sup>2</sup>,
- having regard to the joint statement from the 5th EU-Serbia Inter-Parliamentary Meeting of 18-19 April 2011,
- having regard to the EU-Serbia readmission agreement of 8 November 2007<sup>3</sup> and to Council Regulation (EC) No 1244/2009 of 30 November 2009 amending Regulation (EC) No 539/2001 of 15 March 2001 listing the third countries whose nationals must be in possession of visas when crossing the external borders and those whose nationals are exempt from that requirement<sup>1</sup>,

- having regard to Council decision 2011/361/CFSP of 20 December 2010 on the signing and conclusion of the Agreement between the European Union and the Republic of Serbia establishing a framework for the participation of the Republic of Serbia in European Union crisis management operations,
  - having regard to the report of the Chief Prosecutor of the ICTY submitted on 7 December 2011,
  - having regard to its previous resolutions,
  - having regard to Rule 110(2) of its Rules of Procedure,
- A. whereas in the Presidency Conclusions issued following the Thessaloniki European Council of 19 and 20 June 2003 an unequivocal commitment was made to all the Western Balkan states that they would join the European Union once they meet the established criteria and this commitment was reiterated in the renewed consensus on enlargement approved by the European Council on 14 and 15 December 2006, the Council Conclusions of 25 October 2010, as well as by the EU-Western Balkans ministerial meeting of 2 June 2010;
- B. whereas in its opinion of 12 October 2011 on Serbia's application for membership the Commission recommended that the European Council grant Serbia EU candidate status;
- C. whereas constructive approaches towards regional cooperation and good-neighbourly relations are key elements of the Stabilization and Association Process;
- D. whereas Serbia is in a position to become an important player in guaranteeing security and stability in the region;
- E. whereas bilateral issues should not represent and be used as an obstacle in the accession process but they should be addressed in a constructive spirit, as early as possible, taking into account overall EU interests and values;
1. Welcomes the progress achieved by Serbia in the reform process and calls on the Council to grant Serbia candidate country status at the meeting in March given that Serbian authorities have met the conditions as outlined at the December 2011 Summit; welcomes in this respect the agreement between Belgrade and Pristina on inclusive regional cooperation reached on 24 February; underlines the utmost importance of implementation in good faith of the agreements reached;
  2. Is of opinion that, provided that the key priority outlined by the Commission in its Opinion is met and that the reform process continues, accession negotiations should be opened with Serbia as soon as possible, thereby demonstrating the EU commitment to the country's EU perspective; welcomes the considerable progress made by Serbia towards meeting the political Copenhagen criteria, as recognised by the European Council, and recalls that the further progress in the European integration process is dependent on continuing the progress in this area, and in particular guaranteeing democracy and functioning of democratic institutions, upholding the rule of law, respect for human rights, protection of minorities, maintaining good-neighbourly relations and regional cooperation including peaceful resolution of bilateral issues as well as improving the functioning of the market economy;

3. Welcomes the progress in the ratification of the Stabilisation and Association Agreement and calls on the remaining EU Member States to finish the ratification procedures without delay;
4. Welcomes the delivery to justice of the remaining two fugitives sought by the ICTY, Ratko Mladić and Goran Hadžić, thus reaching a fully satisfactory cooperation with the ICTY; underlines that their capture was not only a requirement for further progress of Serbia towards the EU but, above all, a step towards bringing justice to the victims of the 1990's conflicts in the former Yugoslavia and reconciliation in the region; calls for continuous full and committed cooperation with the Tribunal and for a thorough investigation and prosecution of persons engaged in the support networks, which allowed the fugitives to hide for such a long time, particularly in the military and civilian security services;
5. Is seriously concerned by the developments in north Kosovo in the second part of 2011, and in particular the violence resulting from the July incidents and the subsequent attacks against the international forces of KFOR; condemns such actions, reminds the Serbian government of its obligation to do everything in its power to prevent them and reiterates that only continuous political efforts in good faith and negotiated pragmatic and sustainable solutions within the framework of the EU-mediated Belgrade-Pristina dialogue can permanently eliminate the tensions in the region and recalls the vital significance of a stable majority-minority relationship, based on mutual respect; welcomes, in this regard, the agreements reached on freedom of movement and Kosovo's participation in regional organizations, and calls on the Serbian government to move forward with their full implementation, and without delay; welcomes the regular flow of goods that has been enabled by the acceptance of the customs stamps, the technical protocol on implementation of the agreement on the integrated border management, the beginning of delivery of civil registry books taken from Kosovo by Serbian authorities to EULEX and the start of the implementation of the agreement on freedom of movement on 26 December 2011, as the first positive steps in the implementation of agreements; welcomes the statements by President Tadić on the necessity to dismantle the barricades, followed by their partial removal; calls on political leaders to adopt a constructive discourse in order not to endanger the implementation of the reached agreements and the ongoing negotiations between Serbia and Kosovo; recalls that free movement of people, goods, ideas, services and capital is a fundamental value in the EU and calls on the Serbian authorities to encourage the permanent removal of the remaining barricades, allowing for free access to and passage through the crossing points, facilitating the cooperation of EULEX with the Kosovo Serbs to enable EULEX and KFOR to fully execute their mandates; welcomes in this regards removal of the two remaining roadblocks in the Serbian side of the border line as well as criminal investigations taking place against perpetrators of July 2011 incidents;

6. Welcomes the reaffirmation of need for continuity of dialogue between Belgrade and Pristina to improve living conditions for people of both Serbia and Kosovo and underlines the importance of that process for wider regional cooperation, stability and dynamism of accession process; calls for proper investigation of cases of violence, especially those involving the international forces of KFOR; however recalls that dismantling parallel structures in Kosovo would be the focal point of all cooperation;
7. Welcomes the fact that Serbian citizens have had the opportunity to travel to the Schengen zone without visas since December 2009, as strongly advocated by the Parliament; fully supports this extension of visa-free regime but is however concerned by increased numbers of asylum seekers in some EU Member States; calls on the authorities to reinforce their efforts to explain to the society the inadmissibility of such requests and to identify and prosecute the organisers of ‘asylum travels’; stresses, however, that any measures aimed at preventing the abuse of the visa-free travel regime must be based on the rule of law and must not unduly infringe on fundamental rights, such as arbitrarily denying individuals the right to leave their country; calls on EU Member States to assist Serbia in its efforts to fight the organised crime in connection with false asylum seekers trafficking; moreover notes that Serbia is increasingly becoming a recipient country of asylum seekers, needing therefore a more efficient management of asylum requests;
8. Points out that a large number of Serbian asylum seekers in the European Union belong to ethnic minorities; calls on the Serbian authorities to tackle actively their problems, aggravated by the current economic situation and high unemployment, by facilitating their integration into society and improving their living conditions; is of opinion that such actions will lead to reducing and eventually eliminating the root causes for the high number of asylum applications; furthermore, calls on the Member States to step up efforts to fight organized crime groups dealing with trafficking in human beings, in cooperation with the Commission and with EU law enforcement agencies;
9. Underlines the utmost importance of the fight against corruption and organised crime for the rule of law in the country; welcomes the recent adoption of several laws related to the fight against corruption and encourages the Serbian authorities to focus on their effective implementation; but expresses its concern about the lack of implementation and the increasing influence of the executive branch on the work of independent institutions and the media; points out, in this regard, that the position of Serbia in the Corruption Perception Index has not improved over the last three years; stresses that not only declaratory but genuine political will is needed to combat corruption; encourages the government to build up strong leadership over the anti-corruption processes ; equally, welcomes the decision of the Constitutional Court on unconstitutionality of holding several public functions as a step towards greater transparency in the public sector, lowering the risk of conflict of interests; underlines, however, that intertwined interests of political parties and private interests sustain systemic corruption, a common problem in the region which continues to be widespread and calls for credible record of prosecution of high-level cases and for implementing appropriate protection system for the persons who report it; underlines likewise that corruption in the health sector is a particular concern; urges the government to follow up on the findings of high level and systemic corruption identified by the Anti-Corruption Council and Anti-Corruption Agency as well as to ensure that these agencies have adequate financial and administrative resources to perform their work and to give more high-level support to the anti-corruption strategy;

10. Is concerned by the Draft Law on Amending the Public Procurement Law, which is not in line with the Serbian government's own Strategy for Development of Public Procurement; calls on the Serbian government to allow for proper public consultation on the draft law and to bring it in line with the government's official public procurement strategy and international standards; underlines that changes to the Law should not weaken the body which monitors public procurement procedures as this area has been identified as one of the most important sources of systemic corruption in the country;
11. Draws attention to many reported irregularities, in particular in the fields of privatisation process and of public procurement, and calls for more active engagement on the part of law enforcement agencies to ensure their thorough investigation and bringing the perpetrators to justice; in this respect draws attention to the utmost importance of compiling a thorough and complete record of public property in order to provide a secure and predictable business environment, ensure continuity of restitution of private property without any kind of discrimination, especially on ethnic grounds, as well as to prevent illegal alienation of public assets by private interests; welcomes that the adopted Act on Rehabilitation solves controversial issues on collective guilt and that individual responsibility prevails in this law; calls on the government to guarantee efficiency and non-discrimination in the process of implementation of the Act on Restitution and the Act on Rehabilitation;
12. Welcomes the adoption of the law on financing of political activities, as a major step towards transparency of the political system, and calls for its proper implementation, in particular for securing an effective system of monitoring of transactions and effective sanctions;
13. Recalls the importance of the work of the parliament, welcomes the steps taken to strengthen its legislative role and that of the oversight of the government activities and calls for further efforts to further build up the capacities to perform its tasks effectively, particularly over the security services; to this end, welcomes the decision to reorganise the services of the parliament, aiming at streamlining and increasing the efficiency of their work;
14. Notes the reform of judiciary and prosecution as well as the reorganisation of the system aiming at improving its efficiency and eliminating backlog of cases, in line with the recommendations of the Venice Commission; however, calls on the Serbian government to increase efforts in order to ensure independence and professionalism of these two sectors, which should undergo deep and broad reforms; emphasises the development of a non-political judiciary and separation of powers are essential elements in the reform of judiciary;
15. Regrets non-transparency and a number of shortfalls and deficiencies in the judicial review procedure and in the appeal process of non-reappointed judges and prosecutors, including procedural and standard violations and by the impact that these deficiencies might have on the independence of the judiciary, the separation of powers and the rule of law as well as the right to impartial treatment for all the members of the judiciary, including those removed from office; calls on the authorities to ensure that the High

Judicial Council acts transparently, independently and in full capacity, applying consistent and firm criteria clearly determined in the law and without any external pressures; points to the need for a regular system of assessment of the performance of judges to insure the continued quality of the judiciary after completion;

16. Is seriously concerned by repeated allegations of misuse of Article 359 of Criminal Code on abuse of office which was accompanied by alleged widespread unjustified freeze of company and private assets; underlines that these allegations have undermined trust in the rule of law in the country; calls on the authorities to swiftly proceed with a revision of the Criminal Code to ensure that it is in line with European standards and to immediately put an end to bringing charges under the provision of abuse of office in private enterprises and enterprises with majority private ownership and to discontinue the pending criminal proceedings; emphasises that the accused under Article 359, in whose cases there is a suspicion that the period of their detention or of freeze of their assets are disproportionate to their alleged offence, should be entitled to an immediate review of the proceedings against them and the right to reclaim private property and fair compensation;
17. Draws attention to many reported irregularities, in particular in the fields of privatisation, rehabilitation process and of public procurement, and calls for more active engagement on the part of law enforcement agencies to ensure their thorough investigation and bringing the perpetrators to justice; calls on the Serbian authorities to review immediately the controversial privatisation and sale of 24 companies, seeing that the European Commission found serious doubts concerning their legality, including "Sartid", "Jugoremedija", "Mobtel", "C market" and ATP Vojvodina and to declassify immediately classified documents as State Secret regarding their privatisation and sale, as this is contrary to European standards; in this respect draws attention to the utmost importance of compiling a thorough and complete record of public property in order to provide a secure and predictable business environment, ensure restitution of private property as well as to prevent illegal alienation of public assets by private interests;
18. Draws attention to serious deficiencies in the functioning of the witness protection programme regarding cases of war crimes which resulted in a number of witnesses voluntarily opting out of the programme after being systematically intimidated; calls on Interior Ministry and war crimes prosecutors office to engage actively in efforts to ensure safety and well-being of all witnesses participating in the protection programme; underlines that a functional witness protection programme is of utmost importance for the rule of law in the country as well as for demonstrating the political will to deal effectively with war crimes cases left to national judiciaries by the ICTY;
19. Urges the Serbian authorities to initiate and guarantee the legal rehabilitation and financial compensation of persons persecuted for political, ethnical or religious reasons in the past, including those who suffered as a consequence of the application of collective guilt;
20. Calls on the authorities to continue their efforts to eliminate the legacy of the former communist secret services, as a step in the democratization process of Serbia; recalls the importance of further security sector reform, increasing the parliamentary oversight and control of the security services, as well as of opening of the National Archives, and in particular the documents of the former intelligence agency, the UDBA; encourages the authorities to facilitate access to those archives that concern former republics of Yugoslavia and to return them to the respective governments if they so request;

21. Welcomes the progress in the reform of the public administration but underlines that efforts are still needed to ensure its full professionalism and independence from political influence, through full application of merit-based appointment and career system; calls for increased coordination in the implementation the strategy for public administration reform and for including the local administration in the legislative framework; draws attention to the underrepresentation of national minorities in the public administration and courts, as well as in state-owned companies;
22. Welcomes the amendments to the laws on elections and on local elections, and in particular the abolishment of the undemocratic practices of appointment of parliamentarians by political parties irrespective of the order on the voting lists and of 'blank resignations', allowing for political control over their work; calls for the adoption of the law on state electoral commission immediately after the elections, in order to create an independent body to control the election process;
23. Welcomes the role of independent regulatory bodies for improving the efficiency and transparency of the country's institutions; commends in particular the work carried out by the Ombudsman and Commissioner for Information of Public Importance and Personal Data Protection; urges the authorities to provide the State Audit Institution, the Competition Protection Commission, the Public Procurement Office and the Commission for the Protection of Bidders' Rights with adequate financial, administrative and office capacities in order to carry out their duties; reiterates that independent regulatory bodies are essential in the fight against systemic corruption and efficient oversight of the government;
24. Recalls that strong, professional and independent media and internet provision are an indispensable element of a democratic system; to this end, welcomes the adoption of the Strategy of Public Information System development and its Action Plan and the planned withdrawal of the state from any media ownership; welcomes the fact that the Strategy respects the constitutional rights regarding minority language media; however, is concerned by attempts to control and interfere in the media sector and calls on the authorities to ensure its independence from political pressures and other influence; calls upon the Serbian government to ensure freedom and independence of the media in line with EU standards; is concerned that a criminal law was introduced barring comments on justice proceedings and verdicts publicly in media; is concerned by threats directed against Serbian journalists, and calls for their thorough investigation in order to provide the journalists with safe environment to conduct their work effectively and without necessity of self-censorship; underlines the need to take the steps against the concentration of media ownership and lack of transparency in the media as well as to ensure equal access to advertising market, including the disbursement of the public funds spent on advertising and promotion; calls for respect for the Code of Ethics by the journalists; notes that the level of internet access remains low, recognises the importance of the internet in media freedom and urges the authorities to maximise their efforts in this field;

25. Regrets the fact that the state authorities effectively imposed media blackout in the country with regard to the July 2011 incidents in north Kosovo and misrepresented the role of KFOR in the events; underlines importance of free and independent media for a democratic and well informed public;
26. Welcomes the functioning of the democratically elected national minority councils, that represent national minorities in areas of education, culture, media and official language use; however notes the importance of the full implementation of the competencies of these minority self-governing bodies and the necessity of adequate budgetary subsidies guaranteed by the Law on National Minority Councils; notes the complaints about the irregularities in the preparation process and the legal requirements for the establishment of the councils, as well as the complaints about the violation of the guaranteed competencies of national councils by some ministries and local municipalities, and calls on the authorities to respond to them; and welcomes those decisions of the Serbian Administrative Court which sustained the lawsuits of the National Council of the Hungarian National Minority, resulted from the violation of the competencies of the national council by local authorities;
27. Expresses satisfaction for the overall good inter-ethnic situation and for the fact that the number and intensity of ethnically-based incidents has decreased in the country but encourages further efforts by Serbia in the field of minority protection, by consistently implementing adopted legislation; is concerned by the protests of ethnic Albanians against discrimination and by a tense situation in Sandžak and calls on the government to attach higher political priority to improving the fundamental rights of all minorities, including their access to education in their own language, equal access to the labour market and fair representation in institutions; equally, calls on the government to address the problem of regional disparities by providing support to the social and economic development of Sandžak and the Southeast region, including Preševo valley and to develop strategies for reducing the unemployment rates in these regions; welcomes the agreement reached in October in the municipality of Bujanovac, which envisages steps to integrate ethnic Serbians in public administration, and calls for its swift implementation;
28. notes that two years after elections for minority councils Bosniak national council has still not been set up due to alleged procedural shortcomings in the election process and calls for its swift formation in compliance with the rules; calls on the political and religious leaders to refrain from inflammatory statements, which risk increasing the tensions; calls on the Serbian Government to stay neutral concerning the tensions related to the religious community in Sandžak and to take measures to ensure good relations with this community while ensuring its right to freedom of religion;
29. Underlines the importance of population census in gathering statistical information important for the development of Serbia, in particular of less developed regions; welcomes that the census operations were conducted broadly successfully in Serbia in October 2011; strongly regrets the calls for boycott of census by politicians of ethnic Albanian origin, which were followed by members of municipal census commissions and a considerable number of citizens in Preševo and Bujanovac; notes that the authorities have not yet presented statistical information regarding ethnicity;

30. Calls for further steps to ensure full implementation of the legislative framework on anti-discrimination; is seriously concerned by lack of political will to actively promote policy of tolerance and respect of basic human rights as well as to ensure the safety of the participants of the Pride Parade scheduled for 2 October 2011, demonstrated in the course of its preparation, and which led to the ban on its organisation; strongly condemns inflammatory and discriminatory remarks on the topic by some politicians and members of Orthodox clergy; reminds the government that freedom of expression and of association is a fundamental human right and a basic value of the EU, which has to be respected by any country aspiring to become an EU Member; welcomes the ruling of the Constitutional Court from 22 December on this issue; welcomes the positive action undertaken by the Ombudsman and the Commissioner for Equality to promote these values in the Serbian society;
31. Calls for investigation of the threats by the extremist groups which were given as the reason for banning the parade; underlines the importance of the first ever convictions for discrimination against gays in Serbia, including the Belgrade's Higher Court ruling against a far right leader to two years in prison for inciting violence during the 2010 gay pride march but notes, however, generally slow pace of investigation of the violence surrounding the 2010 Pride Parade, resulting so far in a low number of mild convictions; welcomes, however, the steps undertaken by the prosecution and the courts towards prohibiting the functioning of extremist organisations; calls on state and city authorities to work diligently on building an atmosphere of tolerance, including awareness raising campaigns against homophobia, in line with European standards;
32. Welcomes progress in improving child protection and setting a solid legal basis and strategies for increasing the respect of children's rights and reforming child welfare system; is however concerned by the slow pace of implementation of the adopted legislation, especially concerning children with disabilities, many of whom remain effectively excluded from society, and the development of child protection services at the local level; is particularly concerned with the rise of juvenile violence; in this respect calls the authorities to act vigorously in implementing pre-emptive measures and to take all necessary steps to eradicate violence from schools;
33. Welcomes the amendments to the electoral law increasing the percentage of women in the legislature; calls on the authorities to implement rapidly policies to fight discrimination, including indirect discrimination, which women still face on the labour market and in other sectors of the society, and to encourage their greater participation in the political life of the country, including in the governmental positions; is concerned that although both legislation and implementation bodies are in place as regards both anti-discrimination and gender equality, effective implementation of the existing legislation and further strengthening of the administrative capacity remain major challenges, urges the authorities to step up their efforts to this end; calls for more energetic efforts to prevent and report domestic violence as well as to provide assistance to its victims; to this end, welcomes the opening of the first safe house in the South of Serbia;
34. Underlines the difficult situation of the Roma community, which continues to suffer from discrimination on the labour market as well as have difficulties with access to adequate housing, education and healthcare; welcomes a number of initiatives taken by the authorities to address in particular the issues of the health conditions, access to education and registration of Roma; calls on the representatives of the Roma community to actively engage in this process; calls on the Serbian Government to fully implement National Strategy for the Improvement of the Status of Roma and the related action plan to improve the social and economic situation of Roma in accordance with the EU framework for national Roma integration strategies; is concerned about the low schooling rates of Roma children, especially girls; calls on the Serbian Government to ensure that all Roma are provided with identity documents, the lack of which sets an obstacle to enjoying basic civil rights; underlines particularly difficult situation members of the Roma community in Serbia who fled from Kosovo in the wake of the war; condemns the forced evictions of Roma, including children and elderly, without proper consultation and notice and without providing them with alternative housing; calls on the authorities to immediately end this practice;

35. Asks the Serbian authorities to develop an institutional and legal framework for social service organisations, to better coordinate the supply of services and entitlements, adjusting it to local needs and involving potential and actual beneficiaries in the design, monitoring and evaluation of the systems, in close cooperation with the local authorities; underlines the importance of strengthening the capacity of municipalities to this end;
36. Underlines the importance of civil society organisations in improving inter-ethnic relations and fostering tolerance, and in monitoring the activities of the authorities; calls on the government and the parliament to develop and coordinate the implementation of a consistent framework allowing for their adequate consultation in the development of social policies; urges the government to investigate fully all incidents against ethnic minorities; is concerned by the threats against the activists, human rights defenders, journalists and media organisations, particularly those working in the fields of war crimes, organised crime, corruption, LGBT rights and relations with Kosovo, and calls on the authorities to ensure that these threats are investigated and the perpetrators brought to justice, putting an end to the existent high level of impunity;
37. Expresses, its support for the RECOM initiative (Regional Commission for Truth Seeking and Truth Telling about War Crimes and Other Serious Violations of Human Rights in the former Yugoslavia) with a view to further moving forward the process of reconciliation throughout the Western Balkans;
38. Underlines that Serbia has ratified the major labour rights conventions of the International Labour Organisation (ILO) as well as the revised European Social Charter; draws attention to that labour and trade union rights still remain limited despite constitutional guarantees and calls on Serbia to further enhance these rights; is concerned that the social dialogue remains weak and that the consultation of social partners irregular; calls for further steps to be taken to strengthen the Economic and Social Council to ensure that it can take an active role in strengthening the social dialogue and play a more active consultative role in law-making;
39. Calls on Serbia and the Commission to ensure that structural reforms and liberalisation carried out in the in framework of progress towards EU membership do not lead to the downgrading of working conditions, labour and trade union rights;

40. Notes with satisfaction that the Instrument for Pre-Accession (IPA) assistance works well in Serbia; encourages both the government and the EU to simplify the administrative procedures for IPA funding with the aim of making it more accessible to smaller and non-centralised beneficiaries; stresses the need to maintain an adequate level of pre-accession support in the forthcoming review of the EU's financial framework;
41. Welcomes the work of the Ombudsman and calls on the authorities to give full political support to and to ensure the follow-up to his recommendations and to provide his office with adequate financial, administrative and office capacities to carry out the activities;
42. Welcomes the initiative of Belgrade city authorities to launch Belgrade European capital of Culture 2020 campaign and encourages related projects bringing Belgrade and Serbia closer to the EU cultural space, in particular with regard to interethnic coexistence, multicultural understanding and interreligious dialogue; calls on the Member States and the Commission to support Belgrade's candidacy; calls in this regard on the Serbian Parliament to adopt and implement necessary special laws to regulate cultural activity and to adopt a Cultural Development Strategy to better implement the Law on Culture;
43. Reiterates the importance of inclusive regional cooperation in the Western Balkans and welcomes Serbia's active participation in regional initiatives, bilateral meetings that promote good neighbourly relations, and its increasingly active role in fostering reconciliation in the region; welcomes the official visit of President Tadić to Bosnia and Herzegovina and his support to territorial integrity and sovereignty of the country; calls on the Serbian government to ensure that its direct relations with the authorities of the Republika Srpska are in line with this stated support and do not undermine the integrity, sovereignty, competences and the effective functioning of the institutions of the state of Bosnia and Herzegovina; furthermore, urges Serbian authorities to support reforms in BiH aimed at strengthening and streamlining the country's institutions in view of EU-related reforms; calls on both governments to hold a special joint session in order to achieve better coordination in EU-related reforms; welcomes initiatives and achievements in improvement of political relations between Croatia and Serbia launched by Presidents Josipović and Tadić; reiterates that such positive bilateral relations are a good basis for resolving pending border issues and underlines that the lawsuits on genocide launched by the two countries against each other should not impede further progress in this regard; encourages the Serbian authorities to work closely with the countries of former Yugoslavia and other neighbouring countries on the resolution of all outstanding problems of legal succession; encourages the transborder cooperation with the neighbouring EU Member States Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania, including within the framework of the EU Strategy for the Danube Region;
44. Welcomes the active involvement of Serbia in advancing the Sarajevo process and the signing on 7 November by Serbia, together with Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia and Montenegro, of a Ministerial declaration on ending displacement and finding durable solutions for refugees and displaced persons; looks forward to the Regional Donors' Conference due to take place on 24 April in Sarajevo, where the Joint Regional Housing Programme on the remaining needs will be presented, and hopes that substantial assistance will be secured for housing refugees and displaced persons in all countries, ensuring proportionality for Serbia that hosts one of the largest populations of displaced people in Europe;

45. Welcomes the improvements in the relations between Montenegro and Serbia; calls for tighter coordination of respective governments in EU-related reforms and in particular in efforts to address joint challenges as regards rule of law and in particular fight against organized crime; encourages both governments to step up their efforts in finding solution for remaining border issues;
46. Welcomes the agreement reached between Serbia and Macedonia on the free movement of citizens in addition to the agreements already signed by Serbia with Montenegro and Bosnia and Herzegovina, and hopes that such agreements, which improve bilateral relations and enhance the opportunities for the people concerned, can be extended to all countries in the region;
47. Underlines the importance of the activities of the Historical Reconciliation Committee and reiterates that an ongoing dialogue could lead to better relations; however regrets that the larger part of the historical archives, especially those of the former secret police, UDBA, remain closed; further urges a complete and thorough investigation of the massacres of 1944-1945;
48. Calls on the authorities to promote the example of relatively prosperous Vojvodina for less developed regions of Serbia; calls authorities to swiftly proceed with adoption of the related law of financing of the province two years after the adoption of the Statute of Vojvodina;
49. Recommends that European funds should be made directly accessible to the national minority councils and civil society organisations of Serbia, in the context of EU support to the country's reform process;
50. Encourages the authorities to initiate further steps and open the bordering regions to neighbouring countries in order to facilitate trade and economic links; underlines the importance of opening a terminal for commercial trucks and goods at the border crossing at Ribarci-Oltomantsi in order to improve local economic development;
51. Underlines the paramount importance of high quality education for further social and economic development of Serbia and for decreasing high unemployment in the country, in particular among youth; calls the authorities to actively engage in promoting the value of education among youth as well as to invest more in higher education; stresses the need for public investments for the recruitment of university degree graduates with the aim of having a more efficient public sector and preventing further brain drain which severely impedes the country's long term development;
52. Calls for more efforts to ensure unrestricted quality education in minority languages on state and provincial level, necessary to preserve ethnic and cultural identity, a right already secured through constitutional means as well as through the 2002 Federal Law on the Protection of the Rights and Freedoms of National Minorities, and consistent with the guidelines specified in the Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities, and in particular to provide all the necessary text books and other and educational materials; to this end, welcomes the opening of the bilingual university faculty in Bujanovac, accommodating both students of Albanian and Serbian ethnic origin; encourages Serbia to replicate this model for policy towards other minorities where suitable; encourages that both minorities and majority Serbian community learn each other's languages for better understanding; underlines the need for respecting the cultural diversity of ethnic minorities through allowing the unhindered proliferation of cultural centres, electronic and press media, libraries that adequately cater for the cultural needs of these communities;

53. Calls on the Serbian government to resolve the accreditation issue of the International University of Novi Pazar in Sandžak and stresses the importance of ensuring the independence and impartiality of the Commission for Accreditation and Quality Assurance;
54. Welcomes the important steps taken towards establishing a functioning market economy and the activities of the government which have led to improved financial and macroeconomic situation of Serbia; notes the decision to freeze stand-by agreement with the IMF until the new government is elected; underlines that Serbia needs to pursue structural reforms in order to upgrade the productive capacity of the economy and that the country needs to decrease budget deficit; recalls that the global financial and economic crisis has had negative effect on the society, in particular on the most vulnerable groups; calls on the authorities to make every effort to minimise the adverse effect on these groups - poverty, unemployment, social exclusion - and to address their root causes by developing necessary social and economic policies;
55. Underlines that a genuine rule of law in the country is necessary in order to attract foreign investments and to improve conditions for faster transition of economy towards open market and to create a better business environment; to this end, recalls that the existence of monopolies severely hampers such transition and calls on the government to continue taking measures to abolish them; underlines the importance of removing red tape, enhancing competition and the role of the private sector;
56. Commends the efforts of the government to develop a thriving SME sector through the adoption and implementation of relevant legislation and the establishment of administrative bodies in support of SMEs; at the same time calls for more efforts to facilitate the proliferation of SMEs by reducing the administrative burden, rigidities on the labour market and increasing the access to finance; urges the government to use a definition of SME that is fully in line with EU recommendations;
57. Calls on the Serbian Government to introduce the necessary measures to increase cooperation with the SME sector in neighbouring regions; stresses that this is an essential prerequisite if Serbia's economy is to be locked more profitably into the Community trading system;
58. Welcomes Serbia's good progress in alignment with the acquis in the field of the environment; calls for further sustained efforts in this field, focusing on enforcement of legislation; urges the authorities to step up their efforts in particular as concerns water quality and waste disposal; encourages Serbia to adopt climate change targets in line with those of the European Union;

59. Welcomes the conclusion of EU-Serbia agreement establishing a framework for participation by Serbia in EU crisis management operations and commends the country for its readiness to participate in two EU CSDP operations, namely EUTM and EU NAVFOR Somalia;
60. Calls for further efforts to develop a sustainable network of public transportation in Serbia, and in particular to improve railway system and inland waterway (Corridor VII) transport as well as the road infrastructure, including swift completion of Corridor X; underlines the importance of improving interlinks with the neighbouring countries in order to facilitate trace and mobility of citizens;
61. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission and the Government and Parliament of Serbia.
